

Judge Dismisses Charge Of Police "Frame-up"

Habeas Corpus Writ Sued Out by John Weslowski to Secure Release from Napanoch Institution for Defective Delinquents Dismissed by Judge Morchauser—Weslowski's Record Fails to Show Kingston Police "Framed" Him.

At the conclusion of the testimony Wednesday afternoon, the writ of habeas corpus was dismissed by Judge Morchauser in the matter of the application of John Weslowski for discharge from the Napanoch Institution for Defective Delinquents here he was committed about six weeks ago by County Judge Joseph J. Fowler. Weslowski, who has been a familiar character in police circles for several years, sought release from the institution on the grounds that he was not a mental defective but that he had been committed to the institution through being constantly "framed" by the local police. Application was made several days ago in special term before Judge Morchauser at Poughkeepsie and the writ was made returnable July 22 before the judge here. Chris Flanagan appeared for Weslowski.

Dislikes Chief Wood. After the hearing and while Weslowski was handcuffed to one of the guards from the Napanoch institution in the corridor of the court house, he accosted Chief of Police Wood, who had previously testified as to records of the department, and said to the chief that he supposed "he was pleased." The chief apparently did not hear and Weslowski repeated the statement and added that he would be "out in a year" and would see the chief. He also said that a year did not mean anything to him but that if he had known he was going to be sent to the institution he would have "done something to go for." He was taken downstairs and locked in jail until train time when he was taken back to Napanoch. He was instructed by his attorney to behave himself and another attempt would be made to get him out.

Weslowski's Past. Weslowski when sworn as a witness told of his various troubles with the local police and authorities in other parts of the state. He said he was 22 years old and would be 23 on August 5. He had left school when 14 years old and came to work in a cigar factory where he worked for six months, leaving there to take employment in a can opener factory where wages were better. He first was in trouble in 1917 when he was caught by the police after he took a quantity of brass fittings from a tug boat. At that time he said he was sent to the Catholic rectory where he remained for six months. He returned home and took back his old job and worked for five or six months. He was convicted of burglary in entering a summer camp and was sent to the House of Refuge on his plea of guilty. He remained there for 15 months and then returned home.

During the summer he worked at the Shultz brickyard and in the fall when the yard closed down he would not get work and "hung around the house." He was picked up by the police for breaking his parole from the House of Refuge. He said he was arrested because he did not go to work. This time he was returned to the House of Refuge where he remained for 14 months until discharged. After his discharge from the institution he said he returned home and went to work on the brickyards until they closed down. He could get no work and left town for Corning where he was arrested on a charge of burglary and sent to Auburn where he served 14 months. This was in 1920.

After serving his time at Auburn he came home and made cement blocks, pointed and did other work about a year ago he again was in trouble when Leo Gallo charged him with assault, second degree. That was his first trouble since coming from Auburn. In city court the judge held him under $10,000 bail for examination. A hearing was held and after the testimony was in Weslowski's bail was fixed at $1,000 which he furnished and his case was sent to the grand jury. No indictment was found and there was a dismissal in the case.

Saw a Policeman Smoking. Shortly after, he said, he was arrested for disorderly conduct by Officer Healey. Weslowski said he was standing downtown waiting for a trolley car when Healey came along. He said the court he noticed Healey was smoking a cigarette and when he looked at it Healey cursed at him and asked him what he was looking at. Weslowski said he did nothing but Healey placed him under arrest and charged him with disorderly conduct and he was fined $25. Again, he said, he was going home on Murray street one night when he was stopped by two officers who ordered him to put up his hands. Instead he ran away. They fired

Scorned Peace, Riffs Are Routed

Flushed With Recent Victories, Leader's Peace Terms Precede by a Few Hours Announcement That His Forces are Fleeing Before French.

By Telegraph to The Freeman. London, July 23.—Five points on which he would make peace were credited to Abd-el-Krim in dispatches printed here today a few hours before the arrival of word that the Rifian leader's troops were retreating in confusion after stubborn fighting in the Central French front in Morocco.

Dispatches to the Times from Tangier said the tribesmen were withdrawing into their own territory in the center sector. In the Quezzan and Taza sector the situation was reported unchanged. The terms on which the leader who scorned to talk peace when in the flush of victory a month ago was said to be ready to make terms now, were learned "on good authority" by the Manchester Guardian.

They included recognition of the Rif State and its guaranty by the League of Nations; recognition of the Sultan of Morocco as the Rif's overlord; the incorporation of the Jebella territory in the Rif State, the retention by Spain and Ceuta and Melilla; the retention of a small standing army by the Rif. Complete Rifian independence was the goal a month ago with no Spanish protectorate such as recognition of the Sultan of Morocco would imply.

Liner Racing Against Death

Carrying Parents of Boy With Broken Back Whose Death Is Momentarily Expected in Rhode Island Hospital.

By Telegraph to The Freeman. Wakefield, R. I., July 23.—The ocean liner Aquitania is speeding to New York today under forced draft, while in New York a racing automobile is ready to spring into action the moment the liner docks to carry on the grim trans-Atlantic race that is being waged with death by Mr. and Mrs. Rody B. Marshall, of Pittsburgh.

The little white cot of fifteen-year-old Rody Marshall, Jr., in South County Hospital here is the goal in the race. The boy has a broken back, the result of a dive from the sea wall at Narragansett Pier.

Narragansett relatives cabled the parents who cut short a vacation in Europe and rushed aboard the liner Aquitania at Southampton. By wireless the father arranged for the automobile to carry himself and his wife to the bedside.

Young Marshall's spinal cord is broken and several vertebrae fractured. "He's just wearing himself out and the end may come at any time," state hospital physicians today.

The Aquitania is due to reach Quonset, N. Y. at 8 a. m. tomorrow.

Auto Struck Child

Vernon J. Kelder of No. 51 John Street Reported to the Police Department Wednesday Afternoon That His Car Had Struck Jack, the Two Year Old Son of Edward Barton of Crown Street, Who Had Run from the Sidewalk into the Road in Front of the Car. The Lad Was Knocked Down But Not Seriously Hurt. He Was Attended by Dr. Mark O'Meara. The Accident Occurred on Crown Street.

entered small places and took small things and several burglaries which were committed when he was out of jail had every evidence of being his work. The Drink Brothers' store robbery at Lake Katrine looked like his work and the same evening a window was broken by a stone in the house of W. Van Keuren on the Saugerties road. A stone had been thrown through Chief Wood's window. He was sure it was Weslowski's work but he could not get sufficient evidence to convict him of the act. The Snyder store robbery on Delaware avenue was another job which pointed to Weslowski.

An extract from a letter from the district attorney at Corning to the chief was read in which Weslowski was referred to as a dangerous man who should be sent to Napanoch for life. Chief Wood said he did not recall the letter. The only charge now standing against Weslowski was the disorderly conduct charge.

John Green, 22 years old, of West Park was so severely injured on Wednesday afternoon when his Overland coupe was struck by an east bound express train at the West Park station crossing of the West Shore that he died at Highland while being conveyed to St. Luke's Hospital, Newburgh. Green was employed at the Holy Cross institution at West Park as a cook. On his way to work he stopped his car at the crossing to allow a freight, west bound, to pass. He then drove on the crossing directly in front of the south bound train.

His car was struck squarely in the center and demolished. Green was thrown clear of wreckage and some distance from the tracks. He was picked up and Dr. Blakely of Highland was summoned. As soon as the doctor arrived he had Green placed in an automobile and rushed for the hospital. Death was due to a fractured skull and internal injuries. His shoulder and elbow also were broken in the crash.

Coroner George Suiter of Marlborough was notified and visited the scene of the accident, later issuing a permit to have the body removed for burial. The accident will be investigated by the authorities.

Jealous Barber Murders Three

Resented Wife Talking to Her Daughters by Former Marriage and Killed Them All.

By Telegraph to The Freeman. Chicago, July 23.—Believed to have resented his wife talking to her daughters by her former husband, Paul Orlando, a barber, today killed his wife, Amelia, his two step-daughters, Marie, 14, and Louise, 12, and then committed suicide. Orlando had heard the mother telling her daughters what a handsome man their father was and believed that his wife still had an affection for her former husband.

The body of the mother was found in a barber chair with a bullet wound through her head. The bodies of Marie and Louise were nearby. In the bedroom his hands still clutching the heavy calibre revolver, lay the body of Orlando. But still sleeping peacefully in a triple crib in the bedroom were the three babies of his own, unharmed.

Believes Wife's Slayer His Friend

Would Not Have Killed the Woman and Himself Unless Drunk, Says Sorrowing Husband—Children Witnessed the Tragedy.

By Telegraph to The Freeman. New York, July 23.—Michael O'Connor continued to believe today in his "best friend," Patrolman John M. Edwards, although Edwards shot to death O'Connor's wife and then turned the pistol on himself, dying a few hours later.

"I have lost two of my best friends," O'Connor said. "Edwards never would have done this if he hadn't been drunk."

O'Connor, a chauffeur, returned to his home last night to find his wife, Bertha, lying dead on the bed with bullets in her head and stomach. Edwards was slumped across the threshold with a bullet in his head and his fingers still clutching a revolver.

O'Connor's frightened children were the only ones able to relate what occurred. Michael, nine, and Tom, six, told police how Edwards, crazy with liquor, beat and kicked their mother and finally shot her.

"I wanted to hit Mr. Edwards because he was hurting my mother," sobbed little Michael O'Connor, "but I was afraid of the gun. Johnny and I hid behind the bed."

Edwards was an old friend of O'Connor and was called "Uncle John" by O'Connor's children. He was living with the O'Connors while his wife and children were away in the country.

Review State Land Assessment

Members of State Tax Commission and County Assessors Review Assessment of State Forest Preserves Located in Various Towns.

A meeting was held at the court house this morning at which time the assessors of the various towns in the county wherein state forest preserves are located met with representatives of the State Tax Commission pursuant to section 22 of the State Tax law as amended by chapter 650 of the laws of 1923, for the purpose of reviewing the assessment placed on state lands by the local assessors. The meeting was in charge of Deputy Commissioner Daniel R. Spratt and Walter G. Ingalls, special agent.

The various assessors of the towns wherein state forest preserves and wild lands are located are permitted to assess these lands. This permission was given three years ago and annually meetings are held with the assessors of the towns for the purpose of reviewing the assessments laid and for the approval of such assessments by the Tax Commission. Prior to this time the State Comptroller laid the assessments from Albany. This method was found to be unfair in many instances and the present plan of placing this authority in the hands of the State Tax Commission was adopted. This gives the State Tax Commission an opportunity to meet with the assessors and after a talk and personal interview arrive at a fair valuation of the state lands. Under the present plan if the individual town increases the assessed valuation of other similar lands in the town the assessments of the state lands are also allowed to be raised. The state permits the local assessors to assess state lands the same as private lands and where other property is assessed at 100 per cent of its value the state allows the assessors to increase the state land value accordingly.

Under the provisions of the law these meetings must be held in every county where there is state forest preserve between July 1 and August 10.

The new plan of assessment has worked to the interest of the towns since they are permitted to assess state lands the same as local land of the same nature. By meeting with the assessors and talking over the matter a much fairer decision can be arrived at than by the former arbitrary practice of assessing the lands at Albany without consultation with the local authorities.

Under the present system the state meets any increased valuation placed on its lands provided the other lands of a similar nature in the towns are increased proportionately. It is the policy of the state to attempt to have all land assessed at 100 per cent of its value and the state will cooperate with local assessors who do this by allowing the state lands to be increased on the assessment roll in the same manner as other property.

Marquette and Joliet.

by J. CARROLL MANSFIELD

THE FRENCH CATHOLIC PRIESTS OF THE ORDER OF JESUITS PLAYED AN IMPORTANT PART IN THE DEVELOPMENT OF CANADA.
THEY CAME TO AMERICA AS MISSIONARIES AND FEARLESSLY RISKED THEIR LIVES TO CONVERT THE SAVAGE INDIANS. THEY WERE ALSO INTREPID EXPLORERS, BEING THE FIRST WHITE MEN TO PENETRATE THE WILDERNESS BEYOND LAKE ERIE.

ONE OF THESE BRAVE PRIESTS WAS FATHER MARQUETTE WHO HEARING FROM WANDERING INDIANS OF THE "MICH SIPS" (BIG WATER), SET OUT WITH JOLIET, A FUR TRADER, TO EXPLORE IT. THIS WAS IN 1673.
THEY PADDOLED DOWN THE WISCONSIN RIVER UNTIL THEY CAME TO THE MISSISSIPPI, MAKING ROUGH CHARTS OF THE REGION, TO TAKE BACK TO COUNT FRONTENAC, THEN GOVERNOR OF NEW FRANCE.

FINALLY MARQUETTE AND JOLIET REACHED THE SPOT WHERE THE ARKANSAS RIVER FLOWS INTO THE MISSISSIPPI. CONVINCED THAT THE MISSISSIPPI JOINED THE GULF OF MEXICO INSTEAD OF FLOWING INTO THE PACIFIC, AND AFRAID TO GO FURTHER SOUTH, THEY DECIDED TO TURN BACK. ON THE WAY TO THE FRENCH SETTLEMENTS, MARQUETTE FELL SICK.

IN THE FALL THE PARTY RETURNED TO GREEN BAY. BY THIS TIME FATHER MARQUETTE WAS TOO ILL TO TRAVEL, SO JOLIET LEFT HIM IN THE CARE OF FRIENDLY ILLINOIS INDIANS AND WENT ON ALONE TO TELL GOVERNOR FRONTENAC OF THEIR DISCOVERIES.
FATHER MARQUETTE SOON DIED AND WAS BURIED ON THE SHORE OF LAKE MICHIGAN.

VARIETY FOR THE TABLE

Summer squash is one of our most delicious vegetables, but it is so often served with little seasoning that it is most unpalatable. Use only the tender squash which will easily crush with the thumb nail. Remove the stems and cut into halves, or not at all; cook in just enough water to keep it from burning.

When tender, drain, boil down the liquid to a thick liquor, add butter, salt and pepper and pour over the squash.

Summer Squash With Cheese.—Cook small squashes cut into halves, or larger ones into slices. When tender, drain and serve with a rich white sauce in which one-half cupful of grated cheese has been melted.

Cucumber Sauce.—Peel two cucumbers, cut into quarters lengthwise, remove the seeds if large, chop fine, then squeeze dry. Season with salt, paprika and vinegar, and stir in one-half cupful of thick cream whipped until stiff. Serve with boiled fish. A small grated onion is an addition to the flavor, if liked.

Stuffed Peppers.—Parboil the peppers, removing the seeds and white fiber; after five minutes drain and plunge into cold water. Stuff with the following: One-half cupful of freshly cut cheese cut fine, one tablespoonful of grated onion, two cupfuls of boiled rice, one teaspoonful of paprika, cayenne pepper to taste, one-half cupful of chopped peanuts and one-fourth cupful of milk. Mix well and stuff the peppers. Place in a pan, surround with hot water and bake for three-quarters of an hour or until the peppers are cooked.

Rhubarb and Strawberry Conserve.—Cut into inch-pieces three pounds of rhubarb and cook in a little water until tender. Add one quart of strawberries and put through a colander. Now add one and one-half cupfuls of sugar, the juice of a lemon and cook until thick. Pour into glasses and seal with paraffin when cold.

Posthumous Works

This was the last meeting until the first week in September.

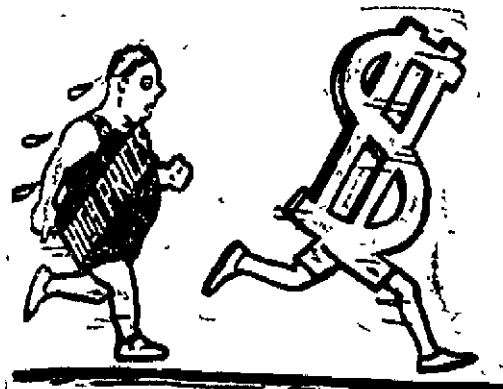

The Maverick players of Woodstock gave a wonderful play at the Orpheum Theater on Monday evening before a small audience, who witnessed the presentation of "A Man's Castle." Each part was given in excellent manner with the entire production well balanced.

Hobbies of the Great and the Near Great

Being a Series of Intimate Glimpses Into the Fads and Foibles of Well-Known Figures in National Life.

SECRETARY OF TREASURY, ANDREW W. MELLON.

Rich beyond the dreams of avarice, a virtual Croesus in the financial world, Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon is revealed by the hobby investigation as a man with the simple desires of the great American common people.

International banking wizard, industrial king, mercantile prince, multi-millionaire—these and many other titles could be conferred on Mellon, but he boasts the simple tastes of any "white collar" worker in the government service. This simplicity of life is really Mellon's principal hobby.

The secretary walks to work in fair weather, though a half dozen luxurious automobiles await his order. He always appears promptly at his office and never misses a day from his desk. He wears inconspicuous clothes and eliminates every symbol of his vast wealth. He could never be identified even in a crowd of government workers as one of the richest men in the world.

Shuns Publicity.

A retiring disposition, so modest as to make him bashful in public, has featured Mellon's official career. Even in the privacy of his own office he has exhibited nervous attacks of "stage-fright" when interviewed by newspapermen. He ordinarily refuses to make public addresses, and when he does make one, it is to a small audience, and the speech is a physical ordeal to him.

At public gatherings, White House receptions or other official functions, Mellon, however, will always be found in the background. He declines to "come up front," preferring to give the limelight to everybody else if only he can escape it.

The secretary has two hobbies that afford him great pleasure. One is a poor man's fad—reading; the other, a rich man's fancy—the collection of art. He is considered an excellent judge of paintings, a real art critic; and in his Pittsburgh home he has gathered a large private collection, valued at many tens of thousands of dollars.

Mellon is widely read. His day is never completed until he has finished the daily newspapers. He keeps in constant touch with news developments throughout the world. He also likes fiction, current literature and magazines. Sometimes he may even be found dipping into classical literature. In addition, he also finds time to read many volumes on trade and commercial conditions.

Eats Little.

Mellon is a light eater. His heavy meal is breakfast, while he dines lightly in the evening.

"Give a man a hearty breakfast and he has a good foundation for a day's work," is the Mellon creed.

In spite of his age—he is seventy years old—and his heavy breakfasts, Mellon has not missed a day from his desk at the Treasury because of illness. One of his associates recently said Mellon had not been sick in eighteen years, with the exception of one heavy cold some years ago, when his physicians made him rest for several days because of the "flu" epidemic then prevalent.

Walking is the secretary's chief recreation. He also golfs occasionally. He played but one round with the famous Harding foursome several years ago. It was whispered afterward that his game was not good enough to keep him in the presidential foursome, but Mellon denied that.

Mellon has infrequently taken horseback rides, but he is not partial to that form of recreation. He believes, with President Coolidge, that the mechanical hobby-horse gives its rider the same exercise without any of the inconveniences attached to riding a live animal.

Modest Attire.

In his attire the secretary is extremely modest. Always scrupulously tailored, his taste runs invariably to black. He usually wears a soft gray crush hat and, in summer, an ordinary straw.

The secretary has many philanthropic undertakings. One of them is the Mellon Institute of Industrial Research at Pittsburgh. Mellon maintains it to provide skilled scientific research into technology for the improvement of industry and industrial conditions. It is a practical demonstration of cooperation between science and industry for the benefit of American manufacturers.

Mellon is also closely allied with many public and charitable institutions. The University of Pittsburgh, Carnegie University, the Tuberculosis League and numerous other worthy educational and charitable institutions have received his help. His charities are said to total tens of thousands of dollars each year.

Despite his great wealth, Mellon has made many friends since entering public life. His career in the capital may be summed up best in the photographer's words: "He's a regular fellow."

Tomorrow—Frank R. Kellogg.

Great Water Power Tunnel

A 15-mile tunnel, which will cost nearly $8,000,000, will be driven under Ben Nevis in Scotland to carry the water from Loch Treig and Laggan to a new power house.

As the sheik would have it:
Next to me I like your lips best.

We hope some day to meet a person so smart that he knows what Soviet means.

The speedometer seldom tells a lie yet it is called a liar almost as often as the cook book.

Well, crooked lawyers may be a necessity. So many clients need that kind.

Nature.

It was the big question—

I liked—Chloe.

I loved—Virginia.

I married—Edna.

Because—

Chloe—was entertaining.

Virginia—was attractive.

Edna—had money.

I am glad—for—

Chloe—got dumb.

Virginia—grew ugly.

Edna—has more money.

The modern version seems to be: "Marry in haste, and repent when convenient."

To him that hath shall be given and to him that hath not shall be taken away even that which he imagines he's going to get.

"Senior Play a Hit," says a report. It's a mighty poor senior play that isn't a hit in the old home town.

The three hundredth anniversary of the founding of Boston will be celebrated in a few years. This, we think, would be a fitting occasion to take up the question of admitting Boston to the Union.

Playful Willie.

Little Willie full of glee.
Poured iodine in mother's tea.
When dad got ma's insurance dough
Willie got a radio.

The girls who think that men are not good enough for them may be right but they are often left.

No man's so distinguished that he can't be extinguished.

Virtue is its own reward, but the naughty can sell their record to some magazine.

Folly makes some people go to sea, but the Follies make a lot more go to see.

What's become of the old fashioned cures for the tobacco habit?

When a girl looks sweet enough to eat, don't give her the opportunity.

The south ought to be more prosperous each year. Don't the bank cashiers go south with funds?

Many a book languishes in the stacks, because people know just enough of its contents to be ashamed to ask for it.

The poorest place to try to get anything on a radio is a hock shop.

There are lots of jackasses in a one horse town.

Great thirst mystery and the two drinks that solved it!

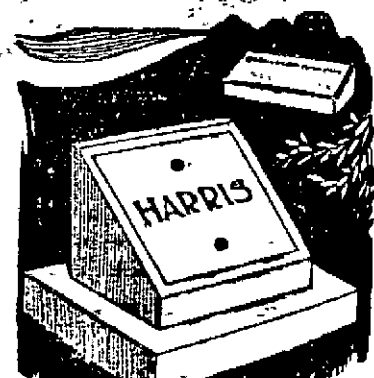

The mystery of thirst is how to quench it—and here's the way that you can solve the mystery. Uncap a bottle of Clicquot Club Ginger Ale. Pour out the ice-chilled, ginger-warmed, bubbling drink. That's the fine, full-flavored beverage that, forty years ago, first taught America what real ginger ale tastes like. ¶ Perhaps you like a milder drink, one that is smooth and subtle, delicate and exhilarating? Then you'll like Clicquot Club Pale Dry, the dry ginger ale that really tastes like ginger ale. ¶ What makes Clicquot Club Ginger Ale—Regular or Pale Dry—the finest, tastiest, most refreshing drink you ever tasted is one unpatented, but uncopiable, formula. That is the forty years of knowing how to make good ginger ale right. It is sealed into every full pint bottle of Clicquot Club Ginger Ale that you buy. The Clicquot Club Company, Millis, Mass., U. Safeguarding the Investor

A PUBLIC utility owes a responsibility to the people who have invested in its securities, to safeguard the investment and insure not only a fair and certain return, but ample security as to principal.

An investor is entitled to know that the company whose securities he buys has ideals that place the interests of customers and of communities served above all other considerations. This implies careful, conservative management, to the end that consumers may have good service and investors may have security.

The following editorial from the Electrical World stresses the responsibility of the utility and warns against uncontrolled financing.

Electric utility securities are slightly in high favor with the investor. Advertisements of banking houses the country over declare, the faith of the people and their financial advisers in this industry, and the rush to "get aboard" has never been equaled in electrical history. We are only well under way, however, in our progress toward the goal of intensively developed popular ownership, and if sound financing continues to be rigidly enforced, the popularity of electrical securities as outlets for savings in the next two decades will almost exceed belief.

Every great success is won in the face of danger, and the responsibility of the industry to keep a steady course and an even keel is sobering. The temptation of prosperity attracts the unscrupulous, and the industry must keep its eyes open and see to it that unworthy interests do not exploit the public in the name of electricity. So far a great record for stability has been made, but now and then organizations crop up with low ideals of service, seek to get control of properties with long and honorable histories, and by paying excessive prices for such control pave the way to and future overcapitalization and ultimate disaster. If this is done under the cover of centralized management, the state commissions can do little to control the situation through their regular supervision over local companies' securities, and the only remedy aside from federal supervision with all its drawbacks seems to be education as to what constitutes a sound investment.

Fortunately for the good name of the industry, such attempts are few and far between, but a very real responsibility lies upon the modern investment banker and the public utility man to co-operate in seeing to it that the public is told the truth about every issue of utility securities offered for sale in its territory and that unworthy securities are exposed to the light of economic analysis and publicity wherever and whenever such are placed on the market. Every industry and every calling in the world is cursed by a few black sheep, and in these hours of great and growing prosperity the electrical industry has a large responsibility upon its shoulders to watch and confute those who would unscrupulously exploit its success and so cast discredit upon its good name.

This company endorses the sentiments contained in this editorial. Its securities are offered to its customers with a full realization of the responsibility involved and welcomes the close scrutiny given by the Public Service Commission of the purposes of its issues, as a safeguard for investors.

Sheldon Points Way to Bury Rip

Visitors from Albany, Port Jervis, New York city, Ithaca and Berwick, Penn., were present at the weekly luncheon of the Kingston Rotary Club on Wednesday, and a highly laudatory description of Chautauqua attractions was given by Miss Roberts.

The speaker of the day was Arthur F. Sheldon who outlined in his clear and inimitable way the necessity for a clever knowledge of natural laws as applied to "human engineering" and the bearing of a knowledge of these laws on the very necessary job of "burying Rip Van Winkle" in this vicinity. Mr. Sheldon said he often wondered what would be the result could the people of Los Angeles, who have built a city in a desert, with no natural asset but climate, take possession of this region with its manifold natural advantages.

Providence, Destiny and the Will of Man are three great powers and the Will of Man has power to change the natural destiny of the creations of Providence. The Will of Man may destroy it, or plant it in good soil, cultivate, graft, prune and cause it to produce perfect fruit. Providence never made good apples. It is only when the Will of Man intervenes between Providence and Destiny that really good apples are made to grow.

Today We Celebrate

MIRIAM.

Miriam was the sister of Moses, the Prophet and Law-giver of Israel, and was the eldest of the family. She is mentioned first as watching her brother's cradle.

After the crossing of the Red Sea she became, "Miriam the Prophetess" and takes the lead, with Aaron, in the complaint against Moses for his marriage with a Cushite. For this she was stricken with leprosy. This curse was removed, and she died at the close of her wandering, being buried in Kadesh.

DETROIT AND SALT LAKE CITY.

Today is the beginning of a new year for two great American cities, as Detroit was 224 years old tomorrow, having been first settled by French colonists under De la Motte Cadillac and Fort Pontchartrain was built as a defense against the Indians who were not always friendly. Owing to its strategic situation, Detroit has never been without a military garrison since its founding. The city has changed its flag five times, has owed allegiance to three different sovereigns, and has been the scene of a dozen massacres and fifty battles, was once utterly destroyed by fire. Salt Lake City, the great desert metropolis was founded by the Mormons seventy-eight years ago tomorrow.

RICHARD GIBSON, MINIATURE PAINTER.

On the 22nd of July 1690 died Richard Gibson, aged 75, and 15 years afterwards his widow died at the advanced age of 89. Nature thus, by length of years, compensated this compendious couple, as Evelyn terms them, for shortness of stature—the united heights of the two amounting to less than seven feet. Gibson was miniature painter, in every sense of the phrase, as well as court-dwarf, to Charles I, his wife, Ann Shepherd, was court-dwarf to queen Henrietta Maria. Her majesty these two clever but diminutive persons, the king giving away the bride, the queen presenting her with a diamond ring, while Waller, the Court poet, celebrated the nuptials in one of his prettiest poems:

"Design or chance make others wive But nature did this match contrive. Eve might as well have Adam fled. As she denied her little bed To him, for whom Heaven seemed to frame, And measure out this little dame."

Prestige & Profit

Goods advertised in newspapers are superior to non-advertised goods!

This is the conclusion of a Better Business Bureau that has been checking up newspaper advertising in an Eastern city.

Careful comparisons were made of advertised goods and similar lines that were not advertised.

In 95% of the cases, the Better Business Bureau reports, the advertised articles were superior in quality to the non-advertised articles.

Good news for newspaper readers—of course, but most of them know it by experience.

How about the national advertiser who is seeking that elusive thing called "prestige"?

A manufacturer's brands are in the best company when they are in the advertising columns of the daily newspaper.

And since newspaper advertising sells goods, newspaper advertisers combine prestige with profit.

Vanderbilt Bride "The Perfect Girl"

Miss Muriel Vanderbilt to Marry
Famous Football Star on Saturday
—She Neither Smokes, Drinks Nor Uses Cosmetics.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Newport, R. I., July 23.—Society's four hundred was gathering here, the bridal gown and trossseau have arrived from Paris, the clergymen have been selected, the father may give his daughter in marriage and the wedding will be marked by simplicity—these are virtually the only facts available today regarding the marriage on Saturday of Miss Muriel Vanderbilt and Frederic Cameron
Church, of Lowell, Mass.

Miss Vanderbilt, one of the richest young women in the United States, is known as "the perfect girl of the smart set" for she does not smoke, drink intoxicants or use cosmetics.

"Freddy" Church was a super-football star at Harvard, one of the fastest backfield men the college gridiron has known, a great forward passer and a wonderful kicker. He is now engaged in the insurance business in Boston.

"Beachmound," the Thaw villa here, leased by Miss Vanderbilt's mother, Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt, has been made ready for the wedding. The Right Rev. Herbert Shipman, suffragan bishop of New York, arrived today to perform the ceremony. The Rev. Stanley C. Hughes, rector of Trinity Church, will act as the resident clergyman.

There will be no bridal attendants neither will there be a best man.
Mrs. Vanderbilt and her daughter have let it become known that simplicity and privacy are desired.
Even the names of the wedding guests are withheld.

A description of the bridal gown has been sought by enterprising reporters but without success. As for the trossseau the best information available was that it contained sport clothes and some evening things.
Miss Vanderbilt is a lover of the great outdoors.

A Vanderbilt wedding always attracts wide attention and Mrs. Vanderbilt has been pestered with cranks. One man accosted her on Bailey's Beach, pleading for an invitation for the wedding. Mrs. Vanderbilt appealed to the beach police and the man hurried away. Other
"cranks" have sent her threatening letters.

EMIL W. WAGNER

Emil W. Wagner, Chicago grain broker, plunged to his death from sensational suicide leap. A few years ago he was rated as many times a millionaire, but recently, it was said, he had difficulty meeting a $150 obligation.

Unconscious Prejudice

Senator Edwards said in a prohibition argument in Trenton:

"We can't argue prohibition fairly and squarely because we are all prejudiced about it one way or another.
We claim we're unbiased, but we soon give ourselves away."

"We're like the man whose name was drawn for the murder jury."

"Mr. Jones," they said to him, "before we take you on this jury we must find out whether you have formed any prejudice about the defendant's guilt or innocence."

"No," said Jones. "No, I ain't formed no prejudice whatever."

"And, Mr. Jones, have you, or have you not, any conscientious objections to capital punishment?"

"No objections at all," said Jones,
"in a case like this."

Try This Test

Close your eyes and walk at a tree or other object some distance away.
You will find that you veer widely in one direction or the other. Right-handed men generally go to the right, left-handed to the left. This is probably due to small irregularities in the stride, one leg working a trifle more strongly than the other. The only person who can walk a straight line is a blind man, who has trained his sense of direction to an exceedingly high degree because of his affliction.—New

Moon's Visibility

Owing to the facts that the rotation of the moon on its axis and its motion around the earth are not quite uniform and that the moon's axis is not quite perpendicular to its orbit, we see extra portions of the eastern and western faces and the north and south caps. The motions caused by these deviations are called the librations of the moon and they allow about three-fifths of the moon's surface to be visible at one time or another.

Harp Place Now Tuscarawas Farm

Situated Six Miles From High Falls.
Near Lake Mohonk—Has Been in Harp Family 100 Years—New Owner Makes Big Improvements.

On Saturday morning of last week, Attorney V. B. Van Wageningen, representing Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Harp of Kingston, with Attorney G. B. Overhiser of Newburgh representing Mr. and Mrs. Robert Walters of Brooklyn, passed a title which has been in the Harp family for over 100 years. The new owner, Mr. Walters of the Western Union Telegraph Company of 24 Walker street, New York city, is making many improvements and making great use of the wonderful water rights which the place affords.

A gentleman who walked over the Walters property last week, after being in all parts of the country, stated that the beauty of the Walters Falls and the wonderful scenes covered any that he had ever come across. The winding rapids and deep valleys with beautiful pine trees are located just below the great sky top of Mohonk.

More than 300 acres of the farm is covered with beautiful pine groves and maples. Mr. Walters is making plans to build a lake near the falls, also to make a golf course and tennis courts. A new circular has been issued by Mr. Walters, with views of the mountains, streams and other attractions. These circulars are in demand among the Western Union and American Telephone and Telegraph Company employees in New York.

Mr. Walters plans to get the town to do some repairing on the roads which run into the property as they need repairs badly at the present time. He also plans to have his property protected from hunters and trappers, so that his patrons can enjoy the sport during the hunting season. The property is noted for its rabbit, coon and fox hunting.

In August many New Yorkers as well as Newburghers and others will visit Tuscarawas Farm. There is a large maple grove on the property known as one of the prettiest in the state. Tuscarawas Farm is about six miles south of High Falls just under Lake Mohonk on the road to Minnewaska. The water falls are at the east end of the farm pouring out from under the beautiful pine grove.

Can You Help?

Leopold Schapp, eighty-five-year-old New York philanthropist, who has amassed millions has requested the public to send him suggestions as to the best way to distribute his money so that it will accomplish the greatest good. He has so far given funds and donations amounting to $2,500,000.

New Famous Broadway Started as Cowpath

Though some New Yorkers believe that Broadway starts at Forty-second street, the story of Broadway, if completely told, is a long, long story. For Broadway it was that led from the old Dutch fort, Fort Manhattan, built 300 years ago, to the gate in a wooden wall that shut the village in from the wilderness beyond, says the New York World.

It was called by the Dutch the Heere straat. It was only a country road. The real business center of the village was Pearl street.

By 1726-200 years ago—Broadway had become somewhat more important in the life of the village. It now extended to what is at present the beginning of Park row. And what is now Broadway above its junction with Park row was then called Rope walk. Broadway's life, as a growing proposition, was thought to be over. Even at the time St. Paul's was built (1765) it seems that Broadway's prospects of becoming a longer street had improved only slightly. For St. Paul's was built facing the river.

But before it reached its second one-hundredth birthday Broadway had come late its own. Not only was it much longer and broader, it had become the fashionable shopping center of the city.

TRY THIS

For Tired, Aching Feet

When you are suffering from tired, aching and swollen feet so that it even hurts you to stand, just try Carter's Liniment and see what a single application will do. In ten minutes you will feel like another person—the dull, aching pain is gone—the chafed cuticle is dissolved, leaving strong healthy skin—the pruffy feeling has gone down and you can wear your shoes with comfort.

When you think of Liniment ask for Carter's "It's different." At drug stores. For free sample write Carter-Laid Chem. Co., Hudson, N.Y.

Only One Right Way to Compute Century

The word century means 100. It is usually applied to years and according to the Christian calendar each 100 years from the birth of our Lord forms a century. Now ask yourself how many years make 100 years. Of course the answer is obvious—100 and not 101, just as 100 cents make a dollar, says the Springfield Republican. When you have 101 cents you have $1 and 1 cent on the second dollar.

The first century closed at midnight December 31, 100, and that instant the second century commenced.

and so the Twentieth century commenced on January 1, 1901. Then began the year that with the following 99 will make up the 100 that will form the Twentieth century. It is absurd to claim that an event that occurred, say, on March 1 following the birth of our Lord, which is the starting point of our calendar, did not occur in any year at all. Having occurred after that birth it occurred in the Christian era and having occurred in the following March it occurred in the year which consisted of the first 72 months following that birth. That one would be written March 1, A. D. The second year began with the following January.

Horticulturalists At Marlborough

New York State Horticultural Society to Meet There on August 15—
Commissioner Pyke to Speak—
Western Growers to Attend.

Fruit growers of the state are expected in record numbers at two meetings of the New York State Horticultural Society. The first will be held at the Geneva Experiment Station next Wednesday, July 29, and the second on Saturday, August 15, at Marlborough. Requests for information received by Secretary Roy P. McPherson of Le Roy are taken by him as indication of great interest on the part of growers. He says that many growers from the Hudson Valley section are coming to the Geneva meeting and that a considerable delegation of Western New Yorkers will probably turn up at the Marlborough meeting.

These annual mid-summer meetings have long been features of the activities of the society. Short programs of speaking are included, the speakers and topics being selected with the idea of giving the growers valuable information in which they are interested at this particular time of the year. Growers from the different sections also benefit by mingling and exchanging information on crop and market outlooks, their methods of handling their crops and combating pests.

Speakers at Geneva will include Dr. Roscoe W. Thatcher, director of the New York agricultural experiment stations at Geneva and Cornell University; Dr. R. L. Watts, dean of the Pennsylvania State College of Agriculture; and Professor S. W. Fletcher, horticulturist at the Pennsylvania college and secretary of the Pennsylvania State Horticultural Association.

Speakers at Marlborough will include Commissioner of Farms and Markets Horne A. Pyke and Dr. U. P. Hedrick, horticulturist at the Geneva station. The Marlborough meeting will be held on the 185-acre fruit farm of W. Y. and H. T. Velle, one of the most intensively cultivated fruit farms in the state. Lunch will be served on the farm.

New Way to Take Cod Liver Oil—McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets are Sugar Coated and Kids Take Them Like Candy.

Make that underdeveloped boy or girl of yours strong, vigorous and robust in just a short time by giving him McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets for 30 days.

It's the new way to take nasty tasting cod liver oil. You'll be surprised at the results and especially if the child has rickets. Your doctor will tell you that there is nothing in the world so good for rickets as cod liver oil.

So now, Mother, you can help the little, underdeveloped, sickly, backward child to grow normal again so that he can play and romp with other children.

And remember that if you aren't delighted with results after 30 days' trial—why any druggist will gladly return your money.

Try them on this fair basis but be sure—very sure—to ask for McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets—the original and genuine—60 tablets—50 cents.

Your Health

By ANDREW F. CUMRIER, M.D.

THE "COOTY"

PARASITES are present everywhere in vegetable life, like the mite upon the oak and the beautiful orchid, but not all are so attractive as these.

They are equally prevalent in animal life—in fact it seems to be nature's plan to give every animal and plant some kind of an enemy to furnish a good excuse for the struggle for existence and the maintenance of the species.

In man there are twice as many varieties of parasites as in any other animal.

Of the parasites in human beings there are more than fifty varieties, some living on the outside of the body, others in the intestines, muscles, eyes, liver and elsewhere.

Three-quarters of the human parasites are on the skin or in the intestines.

The "cooty," or body house, is of very great importance, not only because of the annoyance he gives his hosts, but because he may carry the germ of spotted or typhus fever.

This disease was widespread and deadly in the early part of the war; and when Serbian soldiers were captured by Germans, the first thing done for them was to round them up and entangle them in lice, which, like the cooty, are unclean, they are.

Lice live and propagate in the hairy parts of the skin—particularly on the hair of the scalp, but also on the eyebrows, eyelashes, beard, armpits and elsewhere.

They seem to prefer the hair on the back of the head. One variety makes its home in the seams of the clothing, but migrates to the skin when hungry.

The eggs, or nits, attach themselves to hairs, and it is very difficult to dislodge them.

They are small, white, globular bodies near the root of the hair or at any point along its shaft.

In the careless and neglected, they are found in the midst of dirty and matted hair, mingled with pus, scabs and other evidences of inflammation. The sexes of lice are distinct, and there are separate varieties for different parts of the body.

They fasten themselves to the skin with their hooklets, and when feeding thrust their nose into the skin, like the mosquito, and withdraw blood.

The female lays 80 to 90 eggs which she glues to the hair with a very tenacious secretion from her body.

The itching and scratching they excite cause inflammation and suppuration, and the pus in the neglected cases produces the matting of the hair and general sickness.

An eruption like eczema may be produced and there may be swelling and soreness in the glands of the armpit, groin and neck.

The parasites and their eggs may be destroyed by a soap, or lotion, or bath containing sulphur, tobacco or mercury. Crude petroleum or kerosene, alone or mixed with sweet oil or balsam of Peru (to destroy the odor), is effective, as also is an infusion of the flowers of larkspur or the fluid extract of the seeds.

Unless these preparations are used thoroughly, and both lice and eggs destroyed, the result will be disappointing.

It is often desirable to destroy the eggs by themselves after the lice have been destroyed; and for this purpose strong preparations of soda, vinegar, borax or alcohol may be used.

They must be applied liberally and thoroughly, in order to dissolve the material which fastens the egg to the hair.

As the clothing of those who have vermin upon their body is also infested, in very many cases, it is well to submit it for a sufficient length of time to the vapor of formaldehyde, or to live steam.

Spectacles Go Back to the Middle Ages

The little storm sashes with which so many people have to cover their eyes, and generally known as spectacles were first invented in the Middle Ages. At that time Latin was in universal use as the language of all science and scholarship, and it was therefore only natural that this new invention should be given a Latin name.

Spectaculum comes from the word which means to see or to look at, and this was the title, afterward corrupted into our "spectacles," that was given to these aids to vision. Later on in history, the clumsy framework of the old spectacles was improved upon, and the new and lighter glasses were called eye-glasses or pince-nez (pinch nose), to distinguish them from the old spectacles. In a sense, of course, all eye-glasses are spectacles, but we use the word only as denoting a special form of frame.

Old Mythical Hero

Siegfried is a semi-fabulous personage of superior strength and beauty, who occupies a conspicuous place in various Teutonic legends and is especially distinguished as the hero of the great German epic, the Nibelungen-Lied. He cannot be identified with any historical personage. In an old saga, he is represented as having slain a dragon and bathed in its blood, whereby his skin became as hard as horn, except in one spot where a leaf intervened. But he is most celebrated for having vanquished the ancient fabulous royal race of the Nibelungen and taken away their immense treasures of gold and gems. He was finally slain by Hagen, who had learned from Christchild the secret spot where alone Siegfried was mortal.—Kansas City Times.

Simple Measurement

There is an easy way by which the height of a tree can be computed by measuring its shadow. Take a stick of definite length and measure the shadow of the tree. Find the length by the shadow of the stick by holding it at right angles to the ground. Multiply the length of the tree's shadow by the length of the stick and divide by the length of the stick's shadow.

Hermes' Reputation Bad

Hermes was the patron of cunning, theft and perjury. According to mythology, when only a few hours old, he stole 50 oxen from the sacred herd of Apollo, drove them backward and forward to confuse their tracks and then walked backward, herding them backward, and concealed them. Apollo forgave him and made him a part owner of the herd.

Heroin

This drug is an acetic ester of morphine, chemically known as diacetylmorphine. It is a white, crystalline, neutral, slightly bitter powder. It is only slightly soluble in water, but freely so when a dilute acid is added. The use of the drug in medicine practically dates from 1898, and there is still a diversity of opinion as to its action and value.

ROAD BUILDING

BETTER ROADS WILL INCREASE PROFITS

There was a time when the stock objection to public improvements was that it would increase taxes. Such an argument cannot be applied to the building of a hard-surfaced road through a farming community for the simple reason that it is an investment which will yield returns more than large enough to offset the original cost. The very livelihood of the farmer and his family depends upon the road to market. If the road is bad the farmer suffers financially through the distance from his market. If he lives on a hard road the opportunity is there for him to make the most of it. The farm on an unpaved road does not yield the net profit which could be had if the road were paved.

Good roads increase farm profits in many ways. Heavy rains do not close the road to market, thus crops may be marketed when prices are right; the level surface permits hauling produce to market without bruising or damaging, thus permitting highest grading; less time is consumed in making the market trip; larger loads may be hauled; the wear, tear and maintenance of vehicles and horses or truck is greatly reduced; and if an auto truck is used the mileage per gallon of gasoline is much greater than on an unpaved road.

Tests of considerable interest to farmers have been made recently to determine the superiority of hard-surfaced roads over gravel and dirt roads in different terms. The average results of the investigation showed that automobiles haul 31 ton-miles per gallon of gasoline on hard-surfaced roads, 21 ton-miles on gravel roads, and only 14 ton-miles on dirt roads. These figures show that it is twice as costly to haul over dirt roads as it is over hard roads.

In addition, hard roads are permanent and upkeep expense is very low. Records of maintenance costs in New York state show that 370 miles of hard road cost an average of $80 per mile to maintain, while 149 miles of gravel road cost an average of $622 per mile per year to maintain. On a hundred-mile stretch of hard road, this would mean $54,200 less maintenance per year than on a similar stretch of gravel road.

Getting back to the marketing of farm produce, the paved road not only lowers the cost of bringing produce to market, but it brings the market to the farm. With the coming of the paved road and all its accruing advantages, farmers along these roads greatly increase in value. Buyers of farms today buy not only the farm land and conveniences of the farm buildings, but the accessibility to market, paved roads often being the price-deciding factor of the sale.

Modern Traffic Demands

Permanent Construction

Road builders and highway officials are coming to understand more fully the many and varied requirements demanded by modern traffic. The good road must be able to withstand heavy motor truck traffic, it must be safe and smooth for automobile traffic, its surface must be such that steel-shod horses will be able to gain a more secure footing. It must be usable every day of the year, it must be reasonable in first cost, and it must be easily maintained.

That hard-surfaced roads fill these requirements is evidenced by their ever-increasing popularity. The materials used in making hard roads are so firmly bound together that no amount of pounding can loosen them. A wearing surface as tough as the rock which makes the coarse aggregate can be secured.

The even, gritty surface, and the very slight crown required to secure perfect drainage offer an ideal surface for motor vehicles, as well as insuring a foothold for horses. With hard roads, traffic need not wait on the weather. Heat or cold, rain or sun have no effect upon them. They are always ready for use.

In first cost, hard roads compare favorably with those constructed of other materials which are able to carry modern traffic, and their maintenance cost is far below that required by other types of road construction.

Must Continue Work

There are 430,000 miles of highways in the United States at the present time that have been improved to some degree out of a total mileage of 2,941,294. It is easy to perceive, then, that the road-building program must be continued throughout the next decade if the full possibilities offered by the motor bus and the motor truck are to be realized in all sections of the country.

About Good Roads

Inquiry seems to be about equally divided as to hotel and camping facilities, and indications are that the advance guard will begin its westward journey with the first warm days of spring.

The rural roads of the United States were extended 495,394 miles during the nine years intervening between the last two surveys conducted by the Department of Agriculture. The total for 1922 made public was placed at 2,941,294 miles.

Dangerous Indeed

A burglar, who broke into a house in Geneva, fell in love with a woman into whose room he had broken, and left without taking any of the valuables. This just shows the danger of allowing sentiment to creep into one's work.—London Punch.

SMALL COURTESY BELONGS TO PAST

People of Today Too Busy for Such Things.

If Sir Walter Raleigh placed his coat in the mud for Queen Elizabeth to step on today, would her majesty be pushed aside by some modern knight in a hurry to cross the street?

If the Holy Grail were a recent product, would it arouse no more comment than any other cup, because the value of its metal would not finance a quest for it?

One observer is apprehensive over the passing of the age of chivalry. In this age of efficiency, she says, good manners are useless, and they have been abandoned almost altogether in the mad scramble for money.

"Push, push, push!" is the watchword today, whether it be on the street, in the subway or on the trolley car, says Elizabeth Robbins Pennell in the Forum, and when a man does rise to offer his seat to a woman, a rare occurrence, she flops into it hurriedly and without thanks before he has a chance to change his mind.

"It would be folly to expect a man to go to the subway with any knight-errant notions, any tomfool courtesy for the other man less sorry than himself, or the woman less strong," she says. "He goes to get his train. If to get it he must knock aside everybody on the stairs to the station, drive a way through the crowd on the platform, fight like a tiger for standing room in the car—what difference, so long as he gets there?"

"You don't thank him," one woman in a French caricature reproaches another, just given a seat by a Parisian who has not outlived his manners. "No, indeed," is the answer, "when a woman is too polite she seems to show a lack of breeding."

"If not to say 'Thank you' is a sign of good breeding, we can congratulate ourselves on being the best-bred of all nations. In the leisurely days of an unprogressive past, 'Thank you' was one of the first phrases taught to the young. But the little superfluous phrase is too severe a drain on patience and breath, now that new reasons for thankfulness have multiplied.

"At one not-very-distant time, next to no self-respecting American would accept a tip. Today those of our critics are right in telling us we outdo every other country where tipping is the custom. Tip the shoeblack, the hairdresser, the waiter, the manicurist—and good form does not allow them to notice it in your presence.

"I write my congratulations or my sympathy or my interest to friends or strangers on appropriate occasions, and an acknowledgment is so unusual that I prize it as a scientist might some rare specimen of an extinct species."

Secret of Success

Jerome S. McWade, the Duluth millionaire, said at a banquet:

"I see that Otto Kahn has been telling the Yale boys how he made his first success. It was by stamp-licking. Otto was the best little stamp-licker in the office, and on that account his boss promoted him.

"All success is as simple as that. Hard work doing your level best—that's all there is to it. Maybe we rich men make a mistake when we tell how we succeeded. It's so simple—just a matter of work—maybe the world despises us when it learns our secret."

"A little slim boy once got a two weeks' holiday in the country. He came back brown and strong, but he was done with milk forever. No more milk for him. No sir."

"I'm done with it," he said. "I seen how they make it. I know. Why, the darn stuff's nothin' but chewed grass."

Robbing It In

"I hadn't going to take my children to the circus no more!" declared Gap Johnson of Ramapo Bridge.

"Then you think it is detrimental to their morals?" asked the presiding elder.

"Nepes! but rather day at Mack & Mauchester's Consolidated Museum, Esplanade and Hippodrome in night, under with Beckwith's Pavilion Circus and Sanger's English Menagerie, when the old clown came out and began to cut up his darn fool-science all of my smaller kids yelled. 'There's paw! There's paw!'"—Kansas City Star.

Announcement!
Walter H. Caunitz has taken the agency for the Stearns-Knight for Ulster and Greene County. Mr. Caunitz was associated with this company for five years and recently connected with the George Schryver Motor Car Company. The Stearns was first to manufacture a sleeve valve type of motor, making their first type four in 1909.
Pre-Eminent Motor Cars
The pre-eminent motor cars of today are those built by the pioneers of the industry—organizations that, by reason of concentration of effort, have endured and prospered through the years. The F. B. Stearns Company has been a notable exponent of the policy of concentration.
The first Stearns car, built twenty-five years ago, was, like all other cars of its time, an experiment—but not for long. Its builders immediately concentrated every effort and facility upon the weakest point and soon the defect was turned into an advantage. Likewise each and every part of the car was developed to its maximum strength and efficiency.
In this way The F. B. Stearns Company developed many outstanding and permanent improvements, months, and even years, ahead of other manufacturers.
The first Stearns motor was a good motor. Aside from minor improvements no radical changes were made for several years. In 1909 The F. B. Stearns Company conducted very thorough and exhaustive tests of the sleeve-valve type of engine, the invention of C. Y. Knight. These experiments proved conclusively that the sleeve-valve principle is the greatest advancement ever made in gasoline engine construction.
Therefore, in 1911, The F. B. Stearns Company announced to the world that it would be the first in America to adopt and build the Knight Motor. Within a few months after this announcement the demand for Stearns-Knight Motor Cars was greater than the supply, and this condition has obtained from that day to this.
However, The F. B. Stearns Company realized that there are certain advantages in 6-cylinder construction, and that many buyers prefer this type regardless. Therefore, the management of The F. B. Stearns Company began experiments with a 6-cylinder engine equipped with sleeve-valves. When the first engine was tested it was discovered that for some peculiar reason it developed no vibration at any speed.
Believing this unheard-of feature to be merely a coincidence, another 6-cylinder Stearns-Knight Engine was built and tested, and likewise found to possess this seemingly impossible quality. Since then, hundreds of these remarkable motors have been built and tested on the block and in actual road service, and none has developed the slightest trace of periodic vibration.
And so, at the close of The F. B. Stearns Company's first quarter-century of building fine motor cars it finds itself, by reason of its policy of concentration, in possession of the solution of one of motordom's most perplexing engineering problems, and therefore on the threshold of a great leadership, which we shall ever strive to maintain.
James Cassidy, formerly associated with the Packard and Franklin service and who recently conducted a repair shop on North Front Street, is in charge of the service.

Secret Service" Officer Passed Worthless Check

Mr. Robinson Pulled Gun on Sergeant Phinney When Arrested—Had Given Rafalowsky Worthless Check—Is Wanted in New York City.

Wednesday afternoon Harman Rafalowsky, who has a clothing store at No. 562 Broadway, called at police headquarters to ask Chief of Police Wood if one Jay R. Robinson of No. 1228 Intervale avenue, the Bronx, New York city, had registered at police headquarters as a member of the Secret Service narrative squad, and was informed that he had not.

Mr. Rafalowsky informed the chief that Robinson had called at his store and purchased a suit of clothes and handed him a check for $30 drawn on the Irving National Bank of New York, and that he expected him to return to the store shortly after the check had been altered.

The chief assigned Sergeant Phinney to the case and Rafalowsky informed the sergeant that while he was measuring Robinson he found that he was carrying a gun in a holster at his hip. On the way to the store Sergeant Phinney stopped at the Kingston Trust Company where Rafalowsky had deposited the check and had them call up the Irving Bank in New York.

The officials of the New York bank asked that Robinson be held as they had been receiving a number of bad checks which they believed he had drawn.

When Sergeant Phinney reached the store Robinson had not appeared. The sergeant went outside and found his man standing on the sidewalk a short distance away. Walking up to Robinson, the sergeant took him by the arm, and asked him to step into Rafalowsky's store. As they entered the store Phinney reached for the holster to withdraw the gun but the holster was empty.

As the sergeant reached for the holster Robinson stuck his hand inside his coat and drew the gun, which he was carrying stuck between his belt and his abdomen. As Robinson drew the gun Phinney grasped his hand and forced him to drop it. The gun was found that the revolver was not loaded.

At police headquarters a number of worthless checks was found in Robinson's pocket and also a check book.

There were also found several letters in Robinson's pockets which had evidently been written to him by his lady friend.

The police department will hold Robinson on a charge of carrying concealed weapons and also of impersonating an officer and he will be held awaiting the arrival of the New York city authorities.

EXPECT FAST GAME AT BEATTY'S OVAL

Tonight at Beatty's Oval, Bart Liccardi's All Stars will attempt to pin a defeat on Beatty's Tigers.

The games at the Oval are attracting a great deal of attention and as both teams are well supplied with players a large crowd will no doubt be out to see the game.

Manager Liccardi will probably start the Curve Artist Johnny Johnson on the mound with Flanagan as his battery mate. In the workouts lately, Johnson has been showing some wonderful control and should do good tonight. McGrane will probably cover first with Vesora on second, Osterhout on short and McGann on third. "Bart" will take care of one of the outfield positions with Ed Taylor and "Hy" Aduchinsky.

Beatty will probably start Fleming. As the Milkmen have been going great lately, a fast game is expected.

Tries to Kill Self;

Coroner Hires Him

Cedar Rapids, Iowa.—Married life apparently held out little promise to Leo McKee, twenty-two, of Dubuque, who attempted suicide here while on his honeymoon. He was cut down just in time to save his life.

McKee was married to Miss Eliza Everett at Dubuque recently and they came here on their honeymoon. He was unable to find a job and his bride chided him for his idleness.

He stole away to a barn and placed a rope around his neck. The coroner gave him a dollar and promised him a job on the farm. He and his wife became reconciled.

WINS HUSBAND AT GATES OF PRISON

Falls in Love With Visitor While Awaiting Discharge.

Lackawanna, Pa.—William Bennett casually sat down on a bench in the jail yard where Julia M. Webster waited with some impatience to bid her late host, the jailer of Wayne county, good-bye. The jailer was perfectly willing to speed the parting guest, but certain formalities had to be complied with. Julia had been "in residence" 60 days, having entered a plea of guilty to a minor offense.

Bennett never had seen the girl before in his life. He was merely a visitor looking around to see what sort of an old jail it was, anyway. The girl is buxom, and she is bright. She smiled on the man, who is shy one arm, but really one arm is all that a quick thinker and a fast worker needs once a girl has smiled on him.

Before the discharge papers had been made out the man had proposed, and before they had been delivered to her he had been accepted.

They made tracks for the prothonotary's office, where Julia answered all customary questions in a rapid manner. She said she was born at Muskegon, Wis., twenty-one years ago.

Bennett gave his age as forty-one and said his occupation was that of a salesman. After the necessary papers were filled out the couple went to the Presbyterian manse, where they were united.

Father's Debt Upsets

Daughter's Romance

Manila.—Rufina Aldales, sixteen years old, and Candido Binas, seventeen, recently approached the justice of the peace of Albany to be married. The ceremony was about to start when opposition arose from an entirely unexpected quarter.

Patricio Mirafior, thirty-seven years old, asserted that he had a prior right to the girl's hand, her father being indebted to him in the sum of 75 pesos.

The father admitted the debt and declared that he was willing to settle it. He therefore proposed that Patricio take his other daughter, Rufina's elder sister, whom Patricio was willing enough to accept. Then another difficulty arose. The elder sister, who was to be traded, refused her father's wishes on the ground that she had been previously engaged to marry a Chinese merchant.

The father is still trying to persuade his elder daughter to break her engagement with the Chinese fiance in order to settle his debt.

Keep Sweet

"Suppose you look at the world through a yellow pane of glass," said the late beloved Doctor Jowett. "Why, then you have a yellow world. Suppose you look through a dirty pane of glass. Why, then everything is defiled. Suppose you look at everything through the yellow pane of jealousy, or the red pane of envy—why, then you disfigure everything. And if you look at things through a soured disposition you will not see anything that is lovely or sweet. The cynical heart has a charmless world."

READY TO WED WOMAN WHOSE MATE HE SLEW

Young Eskimo Killed His Foster Father Following Quarrel in Woods.

Edmonton, Alta.—Because he is ready to follow the tribal law and marry the widow of the man he murdered, Ikaklukplak, an Eskimo, will be released from the prison at Edmonton, Alberta, Canada, this summer. Mounted policemen will take him back to Alaska, where he will become the husband of Khatlia, whose husband, Havougach, he murdered five months ago. Ikaklukplak was given a five-year sentence for the crime.

Havougach and Khatlia, being childless, took Ikaklukplak as their foster child, according to the story of the case. The young man grew up strong and fearless and learned to love his Killed Foster Father.

One day, it is said, the young man and his father were walking through the forest when they quarreled. The father threatened to kill the son, but did not. The son, however, shot his father to death, claiming that he feared for his life.

The son was arrested and convicted and sent to prison. Then his attorneys said he was ready to return to Alaska and marry the widow of his victim, according to the law of his tribe. The government decided that the young man had been punished enough, so he will be paroled this summer. The woman who is to become his bride, it is said, is preparing the honeymoon igloo now.

School on Wheels for Girls in "Backwoods"

Brisbane, Australia.—A domestic science school on wheels is one of the recent innovations of the Queensland government designed to reach people living in the "backwoods" areas. Three special railroad coaches in which the domestic science classes are taught have already been equipped and started on the road in charge of capable teachers. Others are now being constructed.

The traveling school will remain from five to ten weeks in each center, according to the population and the interest the local girls show in the adventure.

Cooking, laundry work, needlecraft and housekeeping are taught in these schools. Fifteen girls may easily be taught in each class. In the "cow" country many of the girls come to the school on horseback, often riding 15 to 25 miles, while others use buggies, automobiles and even travel some distance on foot. Free cook books and pamphlets on hygiene, sanitation and other crafts of interest to the housewife are issued free by the government and distributed by the teachers.

Actor Fined for Writing

Play in Railroad Depot

Milwaukee.—When the great American play is written Judge George Page and a Milwaukee policeman may swell with pride and say, "We inspired the masterpiece."

The policeman arrested a playwright at the North Western station. He had been in a semi-concealed nook for one hour and twenty minutes. The officer thought that this constituted disorderly conduct.

Judge Page in District court agreed and fined Ignace Vinock, twenty-eight, of 522 National avenue, $10 and costs. Ignace plays in a Polish stock company here and formerly acted in Chicago.

"I am a playwright, Judge," Vinock said. "I went over to the book to write a play and think up the business and the lines."

Mr. Paul Rupp, a city policeman examined Vinock and declared he was mentally alert and quite intelligent.

"I will put the scene in my next play," Vinock said when he was fined. "And there are two characters here who will have star parts."

Drug Clerk Uses Both Hands for All Work

Council Bluffs, Iowa.—"Bud" Arnold, a drug clerk here, although he can write as well as any one, has never been able to decide which "handed" he is.

Arnold picks up his pen with which ever hand is nearest to it, and he writes with either left or right hand. He does about as well with one as the other. If he is in a hurry, he can pick up two pens, one with each hand, and write two different things at the same time. He can also write, singly or doubly, blindfolded.

Arnold finds it handy to be ambidextrous. One hand does not have to know what the other is doing, he says, and he lets them tend to their own business. One hand might be mixing a prescription while the other is writing the label for the bottle on a typewriter.

The ability to use both hands came natural to Arnold, he says.

Moose Calf's Bellow

Saves Canoeist's Life

Fort William.—The cry of a young moose calf saved Nels Nordahl, Upsal township, from death when the mother of the calf was making a serious attack on him.

The man was paddling around Jackfish lake in a canoe when he spied a cow moose and two calves on the shore a few yards away.

Nordahl emitted a shout to see the animals run away. However, the cow moose dashed into the lake straight for the canoe. The impetus of her charge upset the canoe and when Nordahl fell out, he managed to keep the canoe as a protection while the moose leaped and charged again.

One of the calves, evidently hungry, it was being abandoned by the mother, emitted a cry, and the moose turned away from Nordahl to answer the call of her young.

Nordahl made his escape.

Trained Mouse

John Timmer, a night watchman in a factory in Geneva, N. Y., claims to have been successful in training a mouse to ring when called, the rat being the title of his dinner pail at midnight when he goes ready for his dinner.

When the mouse made his first appearance he gave it some bits of food, next night he rattled the lid against the pail and in a short time the mouse appeared and was fed, and on a third night he found the mouse appearing shortly after the dinner pail was rattled, so he claimed a mouse can be trained to do a variety of things and reward it with food and drink.

It is one appeal to its appetite and is trained.

“Full season and say: ‘Meet honorable Steam Heater Plant’ ‘Pleased to be acquainted,’ I denote, ‘but what is object of introduction?’ ‘Feed with coal and excellent Heater Plant full house with Springtime warmth,’ grin ‘Honorable Master. Daily Exercises for Owners of Millions Clipping Coupons: Strip, don't graze and take words and scissors to main room of "fish" bath. Make bonds and scissors for head, inhaling slowly, and exhale right knee as high as it will go. (If left-handed, exhale left knee.) Lower bonds and scissors to level of knee, exhaling slowly, and use knee-cap for a desk, resting head upon it and clipping coupon. Repeat until day's supply of bonds is exhausted.

Opening Safe Deposit Box: This exercise, if faithfully followed, is a certain reducer of waist measure. So, at safe deposit box on tier of boxes at rear of vault, and, refusing proffered bond of vault attendant, lean down, bending from the waist, with knees and feet together, insert key and unlock box yourself. Do this daily until supply of bonds is exhausted.

Pushing Push Buttons: Have large button desk in private office filled with row of push-buttons within convenient reach of your chair. Inhaling slowly, instruct your secretary to carry chair forward to opposite side of desk. Lean forward and across desk and push buttons, calling in turn production (collier), sales manager (inhaling), efficiency engineer (exhaling), building engineer (inhaling), and special cop in the main hall (exhaling). Note: Care should be taken to inhale after exhaling, otherwise half the benefit of this exercise will be lost.

Pounding Desk: This exercise may be taken alone, but more satisfactory results are obtained in the presence of a room full of people, preferably your employees. Inhaling slowly, summon employees, and, clothing set, pound desk. Exhaling, raise arm, bending at elbow, and pound desk again. Keep this up ten minutes, or until employees are mildly fatigued. If desired desirable words may be spoken briefly during this exercise. Develop ego.

Picking Pockets: An admirable exercise, especially for back, shoulder and arm muscles while riding to and from business conferences in limousine. Lean back in padded seat and, reaching forward with right arm, pick pocket from rose in vase across the car. Alternate right, left, right, left, until no petals remain. As you become proficient, and your muscles and wind warrant it, daisies may be substituted for roses. They have more petals and more resistance.—A. H. L. in Kansas City Star.

HOW WORLD TAKES ITS VACATIONS

Hit Age-Old Trail Followed for Centuries in All Climates.

Washington.—When millions of Americans leave for three days, three weeks, or three months at the beach or the lakes, on the farm or in the mountains, they are hitting an age-old trail, says a bulletin of the National Geographic society, from its headquarters at Washington.

"Lapps of Lapland and the Bakhtiari of West Persia take the vacation trail to a cool summer climate and it is called a migration because they have to go. The Athenian gentleman went to Olympia and called his recreation interval the Olympic games. In China and India popular thought satisfies the vacation impulse by religious pilgrimages. Japan and Germany are not yet entirely accustomed to pleasure for pleasure's sake so their sons and daughters go to health springs, 'bads,' or spas, but it is a vacation nevertheless. The Occident alone is intellectually honest in rewarding the human desire for a change of scenes, a change of climate and relief from duty.

Ancient Olympic Games. "Olympic games of ancient Greece were probably the first vacation excursions. Before their organization, 800 years before the birth of Christ, traveling was risky. The mountains might invite in summer, but if a man loved life he stayed in his own little kingdom though he cooked and boiled and baked in the sun. In Greece, for one month following the first full moon after June 21, every four years, a general peace proclamation went out through the states of Greece permitting contestants and hordes of excursionists to go safely to the beautiful vale of Olympia. The Assyrian kings got around the vacation problem with out leaving Babylon, they built the famous hanging gardens which supplied the charms of cool, moist air under verdant foliage.

"Rome marked its conquests not with lead plates or flagpoles, but bath-houses. Many of the innumerable health springs of Europe, gathering places for multitudes to cure disease and to enjoy rest or sport, boast of Roman origin at the hands of the 'amphibian legionnaires.' The site of Bath in England attracted one of the largest Roman settlements by its famous springs. 'Bad' in German means health spring and towns with 'bad' before or after the names are almost as frequent as 'Main streets' in America. There is Baden, Austria, the noted watering place of the Viennese—rich and poor. There is Baden, Switzerland, and the principality of Baden, Germany. The latter alone contains the health spring towns, Badenweiler, Aargau, Griesbach, Friesbach, culminating in Baden Baden, thus named in an effort to distinguish it from the other 'bads.' The word 'spa' for health spring resort has its origin in the Belgium town Spa, once the most famous in Europe.

"The Prince of Wales goes in for outdoor life on a Canadian ranch, and the king of Spain summers at San Sebastian, the Spanish counterpart to Biarritz, whereas Peter the Great of Russia and monarchs of Austria and Sweden soaked in and drank chemically scented water in Spa. King George of England goes to the Riviera for a vacation, but his ancestral namesakes went to the pump-house of Bath.

"In the hills west of Peking are the ruins of one of the most beautiful summer resorts the world has seen, the summer palace of Manchu emperors. The Jade Fountain, a fine large spring, has been the site of summer palaces for Chinese sovereigns since the Tenth century. But the most beautiful was that built by the poet emperor in 1661. Jesuit priests described to him the beauties of Versailles palace and he wore some of the designs into his own plans. A Jesuit supervised the development of the palace enclosure. Here the emperor took his ease on a royal barge floating on a saprophyte lake in the midst of which rose an artificial mountain girded with marble bastions.

Japanese Climb Fuji.

"In reprisal for the torture of captives, the British troops sacked the summer palace, in 1860, burned its buildings to the ground and leveled the pagodas. Today the grassy ruins broken fragments of grandeur and only some fine bridges and a bronze temple remain as reminders of the palace that lost its soul." Near by the dowager empress later built herself a summer home with $30,000,000 which should have paid for a navy to defend China from Japan. The only boat that China got was the marble barge on the saprophyte lake which has a hideous wooden cabin where tourists may now buy lukewarm beer.

"Climbing Fujiyama is the cherished Japanese idea of a vacation. Although the numerous hot springs of the nation attract thousands annually, Mount Fuji is their mecca. Every true Japanese expects to climb it once in his life time. It is sacred to both Shinto and Buddhist believers: to the former it is the beautiful goddess 'causing flowers to bloom brightly,' to the latter it is the folded bud of the sacred Lotus.

Expenses Paid by Lottery. "The desire to climb the perfect snow-white cone of Fuji has given rise to vacation lotteries throughout Japan. The lucky ticket gives its holder sufficient funds to ascend the supreme altar and admire the sun as it turns the sea of cotton, as the Japanese call the cloud roof, into a scene of gold. All summer thousands of pilgrims, starved in hand, gowned in heavy clothing for the low temperatures, and wearing straw hats shaped like the cone of Fuji itself, trudged up the trail marked yellow against the black volcanic sand by discarded sandals.

"Whether by accident or plan, the most holy time to journey to Mecca coincides with the most delightful season in the desert. Spring in the Arabian desert comes after the winter rains in January and February. Then the waste of sand and rock is cool green for a brief time. Dusty shrubs bearing all appearances of having been years dead, suddenly burst into new green. Brilliant desert flowers blossom into tinted meadows. The wells are full with water that must last another long, dry year. Camels once more acquire fat humps. This is the time when thousands of pilgrims take the long road to Mecca to satisfy religious duty, and though they may not admit it, to satisfy the wanderlust and the human desire to see new beauty.

Salt Water Bathing Lures All. "Each nation has its Atlantic City. Peruvians go down to Barranca on the Pacific, the French in Algeria go to Tiencien in the hills back from the Mediterranean, Athens listens to French operettas in Phaleron on the bay where galleries of ancient Athens were sheltered. Egyptians desert the muddy Nile for Ramleh a few miles from Alexandria and on the edge of the delta's fan. Outcast religious sects used to find refuge in the heights of Lebanon mountains of north Palestine. Now the remaining cedar groves offer retreat for vacationists from the hot plains. In India the British annually move their capital to Simla in the hills. The Lido, an island near Venice, is the famous ocean resort of Italy; and the east shore of the Baltic is one vast bathing beach during the brief summer. Mount Omeishan, a sacred peak of China rising high above the Yangtze in Szechwan, nearly attracts thousands of pilgrims and now has an annual summer colony of American missionaries."

U. S. Babies Thrive Best on Old Ways of Nursing

Washington.—The old way of nursing babies has been found to be the best. Statistics gathered by the children's bureau of the United States Department of Labor relative to infant mortality disclosed that out of the 23,000 babies born in eight American cities last year, mortality among the exclusively artificially fed babies averaged between three and four times that among the exclusively breast-fed.

Early artificial feeding was especially harmful. Partially breast-fed babies had a mortality higher than the exclusively breast-fed but lower than the exclusively artificially fed.

From the data derived it is indicated that there are annually 157,000 deaths of babies under one year old in the United States, 58,000 in the first month.

Mortality for male babies was about one-fourth higher than for females. This fact, the report says, is explainable only by a difference in vitality to the disadvantage of the male sex.

after negotiations with the secretary of the Interior, agreed to provide the necessary airplanes and personnel to the geological survey of the Interior department.

Co-operation between the two departments will be made in connection with investigations of the mineral resources of Alaska by the geological survey. Lack of adequate maps of much of the region back from the coast in southeastern Alaska has seriously handicapped these investigations because of its inaccessibility and the photographing of the area from the air will provide knowledge of the general features of the territory necessary for the geologists to complete their work. It is also estimated that a considerable saving will be made to the government through this method of mapping the area.

The area to be covered by airplane photographs is approximately 18,000 square miles.

Coast Town Opens Novel Mountain Amphitheater

San Bernardino, Cal.—A capacious and probably unique natural amphitheater, distinctive in its setting, 7,000 feet above sea level in the wooded heart of the San Bernardino mountains, was opened recently with a musical program novel in itself.

This huge outdoor theater can accommodate 50,000 persons. Instead of one stage there are many. They are composed of platforms of table-shaped rocks artistically placed by the hand of nature about the large amphitheater. On one, hundreds of feet above the audience, a violinist, standing in the shafts of colored lights blended with the moonbeams through the branches of great trees on the mountainside above him, rendered music from the masters. From another, across a ravine on a precipitous mountain side, a string quartet played softly while choruses sang from half-hidden caverns.

Varicolored lights played about the amphitheater created a queer effect.

Fire-Fighting Aid

During many great fires, fire-fighting equipment from neighboring cities has proved useless because the threads in the hose couplings did not fit the local hydrants. In order to remedy this, the United States bureau of standards has perfected a set of tools enabling new threads to be cut on the spot. Fire departments in many large cities now are being equipped with these—Popular Science Monthly.

Inkwell Covers Itself

The annoyance of removing the cover of an inkwell every time a pen is to be used has been obviated by an ingenious cover that is closed by a small glass ball rolling on a runway, says Popular Science Monthly. When a pen is inserted the ball is pushed back easily. As the pen is removed the ball rolls forward, closing the well from dust and air.

A Great Scheme

"Are there many snakes in this region?" asked a tourist.

"Well—p'nt—yes," replied Gap Johnson of Rumpus Ridge. "Some fellows raise 'em for use at picnics. They promote matrimony right sharply."

"How is that?"

"If a feller has been keeping company with a girl, or for that matter, a gent with an old maid, about so long, she goes to the snake-man and pays him. He turns a mess of snakes loose at the next picnic, and direct all over the place you see girls and old maids jumping right into young fellows' and older gents' arms, a-bollerin' 'Save me, Roy!' and so forth. And about the next thing you know they're married."—Kansas City Star.

Many Use Elevators

Nearly every one rides in America. In addition to the large number of people who use horizontal transit, such as railroads, trolley cars and subways, one of every ten persons in the United States takes a vertical ride every day. This means that the passenger elevators in the various buildings of the country carry up and bring down about 14,000,000 persons every day. Study made by the National Association of Building Managers and Owners' Associations shows that for every 150 square feet of rental space a passenger must be carried. The office space area of the United States is placed at 22,500,000 feet.

The Wrong Method

"The French expect to pay their war debts, and all this pretense of refusing to pay is just bargaining—the Latin method. But to try such a method on us Americans is certainly tactless."

The speaker was Major Hilary Howe, of Nashville. He went on: "Such tactlessness reminds me of the Nashville man who used to go round saying to people in trouble: 'I'm not as old as you are, but my advice to you is—etc!'"

Tire 'Em Out

Someone told us once the story of an old man who, having taken her charge up to the nursery at sundown and tucked them in for the night, would then rock solidly, stamping with her great feet, slapping her knees and singing to them at the top of her considerable lungs. A puzzled passer by once pointed out that whereas her methods might serve admirably to wake the young ones in the morning, it seemed an odd way to select for putting them to sleep.

"It's de best way," the old woman roared cheerfully. "You gotta tire 'em out. Dat's wat I say. Tire 'em out!"—New York Herald.

STAGE BANTAMWEIGHT TITLE BOUT TONIGHT

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
New York, July 23.—Postponed by rain last night, the bantamweight championship bout of 16 rounds between Charley Phil Rosenberg, of New York, and Eddie Shea, of Chicago, will be held tonight at the Velodrome, with the delay in action coming as a favor to the challenger.

Shea was declared to have experienced difficulty in making the required 118 pounds yesterday but much of his strength was expected to return by tonight. He probably will weigh more than 122 pounds when he enters the ring.

Rosenberg continued to rule a slight favorite today.

'Cotton' Tierney's
Home Run Clout
Downed Colonials

Brooklyn Nationals Won 5 to 4. Cont. From Colonials Wednesday at Fair Grounds—Kinney Pitches Good Game—McDermott Also Hit For The Circuit.

The Brooklyn Nationals had a defeat hidden under their belts which they promptly handed over to the Colonials in the contest at the Fair Grounds Wednesday. But it was not until two Dodger pitchers had demonstrated their wares and another one of their teammates had pushed a liner for a circuit clout with two Dodgers aboard did the locals accept this 5 to 4 defeat. Despite the disagreeable weather preceding the game a very large crowd was in attendance.

"Cotton" Tierney, the Dodgers' third baseman, could find Kinney for only one hit and that one was a monstrous one, for in the sixth frame with two on he thumped out a lofty wallop into the left horizon which went for four bases. Before this circuit connection the Colonials had a one run lead on the Brooklyn leaguers, 3 to 2.

Art Brown, recently purchased by the Brooklyn Nationals started off with all sorts of promises of breaking Dazzy Vance's record of seven consecutive strikeouts which he established just the other day. Peters first up for the locals was tossed out on a grounder to Mitchell. The next two locals up were fanned. Three outs being plenty for this inning Art waited until the next frame and whiffed three more in a row. The Dodger twirler did not let up on his strike tactics until he had retired ten locals through said method. All went well for the Brooklyn recruit until Maury McDermott discovered Art's weak spot—a home run.

Maury the first man up in the sixth frame cracked a circuit out, just opposite where Tierney had deposited his in the earlier half of the same inning. The part which made local fans sad was that the bases were barren when the local player's hit was coined.

But Maury's treatment of his offerings spelled Brown's retirement, for after the locals had knocked six hits from the opening twirler, Joe Oeschger took charge of the mound and gave only two more hits for the final three rounds besides keeping himself free from trouble.

Paul Kinney found himself in a bad place several times. Two of these times snappy double plays pulled him out but in the other two the big leaguers profited. In the second frame two Brooklynites had slammed out hits with no outs when Tierney hit at Peters who snapped the ball to Matty throwing into a double play. Paul hooked the next man getting out of a hole that could have meant plenty of trouble. Again in the eighth frame Tierney hit to Johnny Peters who repeated the stunt, forcing Brown at second.

Two Runs For Brooklyn.

Dick Cox the Dodger right fielder singled three times to center field in four trips at the plate, the singles being cracked out the first three times at bat. Dick was the cause of it all in the third frame when the Nationals scored their first two runs. Art Brown hit a hard grounder which Paul picked up and then threw wild to first. Mitchell had no trouble making first, getting a pass. Johnson hit to McCue and Brown was forced at third. Loftus hit a grounder at McDermott making their second out. Jacques Fournier walked and the bases were loaded. Dick Cox then chopped one of his singles to center field and Mitchell and Johnson each completed their journey.

Locals Take The Lead.

The next frame Art was a little too lenient with his passes and with the assistance of three local hits the Colonials overtook the Brooklynites. Murray started with the first local hit of the game with a safety to left field. Brown then set Robins down with a strike out. Kinney followed with another safety to center field. Peters received a pass. Kelly hit down through first base and Bill Murray wound up with a marker. Art then awarded Matty a walk with the bases filled so Paul politely moved in from third making room for Deegan on the first sack. While McDermott was fishing for a good ball to send out Hargrave made an attempt to throw out Peters on third but the toes were wild and Peters hung up the third marker. McDermott hit down to Fournier and McCue whiffed.

McDermott's Circuit.

McDermott had his own personal method of making a run. In the sixth frame McDermott started off the inning with a knock over the right field fence, a run which left the locals only one run in the rear of the Dodgers besides giving the local fans a glimmer of hope. After Maury's crack Brown was taken out and the next frame the locals were greeted by Joe Oeschger who kept the locals in silence for the rest of the campaign.

Tierney's Honor.

All the trouble is laid at "Cotton" Tierney's feet. After Jack Fournier and Dick Cox had each singled in the sixth frame the third baseman hoisted the ball high over the left field and three markers scampered across the plate. After McDermott's circuit wallop in the second half of this frame the Colonials cause didn't brighten any for the locals trailed the Dodgers; who had a one run lead for the balance of the contest. Johnnie Peters scintillates in every ball game with his actions around the shortstop territory and this game was no exception. Three or four times Johnnie picked up the ball when it seemed like a sure hit, shooting it across to McDermott just ahead of some Dodger who was pulling into the initial station.

Regulars Missing.

The Dodgers exhibited a slightly different line-up than they use in the contests with the National League teams. Zach Wheat who regularly plays in the outfield was missing with Loftus taking care of left field. Johnnie Mitchell was at short in Ford's place. Milton Stock was not posted at second for Jimmy Johnson was tending this sack against the locals. Hargrave, who gets regular chances behind the plate was the catcher.

You Don't Mean It!
The following is a single sentence from an article by Dr. Frederick Mote in the London Lancet:
"Seeing that every sensation and every mental image or engram leads to a reflex activation which may be apparent or not, according to the influence of positive or negative inhibition; to every sensation and image or preception there must, in consequence of this reflex motor action, result a corresponding kinesthetic or postural excitation of different stimuli flowing along proprioceptive neuronic systems from muscle spindles, tendons, bones and joints, which, combined with associated labyrinthine sensations, form a sensory continuum which is intimately integrated with the exteroceptor sensory continuum on one hand and the motor continuum on the other."
this form of a bird which accompanies the big animal in his wanderings, and after indulging in a full meal the hippo will stretch out in a comfortable position and with its mouth wide open will give a big grunt or two, and this is the signal for the bird, which flies into the animal's mouth and makes a round of the latter's teeth, picking the molars perfectly clean of all particles.
The big animal seems to enjoy this treatment as much as the bird which gets a big meal without the labor of doing much hunting for it.—Rehebel Sunday Herald.
To Dissolve Glass
Glass can be dissolved slowly in solutions of alkali and acid. A mixture of hydrofluoric and sulphuric acids will dissolve it rapidly, but the hydrofluoric acid is very poisonous, produces severe burns and should never be used without exceedingly great care and even then only after explicit instructions as to methods of handling.

How this One-Profit Coach is built by Studebaker on the sturdy STANDARD SIX CHASSIS

SUPERFICIALLY other coaches may resemble this Studebaker Standard Six, but the resemblance will not stand analysis.
Only two cars are made on a one-profit basis—Ford in the lowest price field and Studebaker in the fine car field. Only in these two cases are all bodies, engines, clutches, gears, axles, springs, differentials, steering gear and axles designed, engineered and manufactured by one company.
Contrast this with the average car, where the extra profits of many outside parts and body makers must be included in the purchase price.
These profits are part of the production cost of the car—the same as the steel and wood of the body. They do not buy materials nor workmanship—they do not make any car one whit better.
Studebaker has achieved one-profit manufacture through years of far-sighted management and through sacrifice on the part of stockholders. Earnings which might have been distributed have been retained in the business to build one of the largest gray iron foundries in the world, to erect stamping mills, forges, etc., to purchase the finest labor-saving machinery, to construct enormous body-building plants.
As a result, resources totaling one hundred million dollars are concentrated upon the production of one-profit automobiles such as this Standard Six Coach.
What does it mean to you?
To you, as an automobile buyer, this means:
1. A Lower Price.
2. A Better Car.
A LOWER PRICE, because Studebaker does not need to pile its profit upon the profits of outside parts manufacturers and body builders.
A BETTER CAR, because it is a thoroughly coordinated, harmonious unit. Every part designed, engineered and manufactured under one management, to work more efficiently with every other part.
A better car because Studebaker can afford to use finer upholstery, better steel, higher grades of lumber, more painstaking workmanship in hundreds of unseen places.
Scores of thousands of miles of excess transportation are built into every Studebaker. When the car which looked like an equal value while it was new, is breaking up, the Studebaker is breaking in.
That is why in Arizona—out where desert heat and rugged mountain trails test automobiles to the utmost—Studebaker sells double its normal proportion of cars. Every county in Arizona which has bought an automobile for its sheriff has bought a Studebaker.
This coach is not a one year car
As a splendid example of the facts stated above, we offer the Standard Six Coach. To appreciate this car you must see it and ride in it. We urge you to do so immediately. It is called a coach, but is in reality a roomy five-passenger coupe.
It is a car that will give you faithful economical service. It is built to yield dependable, comfortable transportation for years and years.
Buy now—no more "yearly models"
This is the time of the year when men have hesitated to purchase an automobile, fearing that the car they bought in July would be made obsolete artificially by the announcement of new yearly models in August or September. Studebaker has discontinued the custom of presenting yearly models. Instead, Studebakers will be kept up to the minute in body styles and chassis design regardless of the calendar.
Come in NOW—and see this sturdy, dependable, one-profit Coach.
